

Wolfhound Reflections

Hugh F. O'Reilly

Reflections

Few copies of the original print of Reflections can be found these days; it is only by chance that I happened upon the copies that are making this possible. Whatever I might say about these books has already been said by SGM O'Reilly and is printed on the pages to come.

I will leave you with this; these books were his labor of love for the Wolfhounds of the past, present and the future. He took the time and made the effort to compile these stories that we might know our heritage and grow stronger because of it. We are a proud unit rich with history and stories of heroes and unsung acts of valor. The Wolfhounds are now over a Century old and we continue to fight with tenacity that has defined this unit since its birth, we continue to show compassion and love towards others and especially our orphans with the same selfless dedication as any other eras of Wolfhounds.

These are the stories of the Wolfhounds, they and the men in them are timeless and are as important now as ever.
